Upland and police renew wage talks

By ANDREA ADELSON
Staff Writer

Renewed bargaining talks were scheduled today with Upland police after City Council members sidestepped a request for state intervention in stalemated talks Monday night and told their chief negotiator to return to the table.

Stumbling over two unresolved pay issues, the president of the Upland Police Officers Assoc. urged a special session of the council to allow a mediator to intercede.

Following a 40 minute discussion behind closed doors, council members ignored the request and directed their negotiator back to the table after giving her new, undisclosed instructions.

Mayor John McCarthy assured the association president, "we did give (Personnel Director Mary Ann Reiss) direction," on the disputed items.

"I take this as a good omen," police association President Ed Gray said afterwards.

A declaration of impasse will be postponed pending the outcome of new talks, he said.

Gray told the council talks had reached an impasse last Tuesday after the city's negotiator had rejected a counter-proposal over a pay issue, the only monetary item among seven bargaining points. Agreement had been reached on all but two.

Police had asked for a flat one-time pre-Christmas bonus of $120 for each of 40 patrolmen and 10 detectives, a cash payment for a non-taxable uniform allowance.

The city had initially proposed a one-time bonus of 5 percent of one month's salary, on which the city would pay 34 cents per dollar in benefits.

After the police counter-proposal, the city modified its offer. The city instead proposed the same 5 percent of salary, but renamed it a uniform allowance, saving itself benefit obligations.

"We're not that far apart," Gray said. "What we propose is not going to break the city. They are stonewalling, and trying to force our hands."

The police association president earlier had predicted the council would deny his request and take unilateral action, implementing its pay plan without the officers' and agents' agreement.

Had that happened, Gray said an unfair labor practice charge was considered. "They think we're kidding, but we expect to be treated fairly."

At the outset of bargaining last spring, police proposed a 9 percent cost-of-living increase, after receiving a 7½ percent raise the year before, Gray said.

Police did not reach agreement in 1981, when the council did impose a unilateral wage package.

Only one of the city's four employee bargaining units, excluding firemen in the final year of a multi-year pact, have successfully negotiated wage talks for fiscal 1982-83. The largest group, 120 general employees, have not started talks pending a second election next Tuesday to determine the exclusive bargaining association.

Officers of a similar one-time cash bonus, other non-monetary pay issues such as vacation time or use of city vehicles, and a mid-year salary reopener, were made to each of the three employee units holding talks.

The total cost, assuming the general employees also accept the 5 percent bonus, is $30,000, Reiss estimated.

Mid-managers reached a tentative agreement last Tuesday, chief bargainer John Wisz said.

Pedestrian safety record honored

Upland's pedestrian safety record in 1981, without a single pedestrian fatality and five pedestrians injured, was better than 437 cities of similar size nationwide, an auto club said.

That record was honored by the American Automobile Association, presenting the city with the association's 43rd annual Pedestrian Protection Program award on last week.

The AAA program recognizes cities and states that contribute to lowering pedestrian fatality and injury rates, explained Dave Condit, assistant manager of the club's Upland office.

Condit said Upland was recognized because the city's Traffic Safety Committee "has an open ear to citizens," and are responsive to complaints of traffic hazards.

"Citizens can scream all they want, but if they fall on deaf ears, it will do no good," Condit said.

As of October 1982, Upland has again recorded no pedestrian fatalities, but almost double the number of pedestrians were injured this year as compared to last, police Capt. Gary Hart said.

In both 1981 and 1982, two persons died both years on Upland streets in traffic fatalities.

Pedestrians are involved in 16 percent of all highway fatalities, the AAA said.

Tom Tondoe/The Daily Report

Central Veterinary Hospital technician Tracey Emmerick, left, and veterinarian Christine Pott, perform surgery on an injured cat. The unexpected also strikes man's best friend. Instead of prohibitive human-sized veterinary bills or putting the family guard dog to sleep, the Upland veterinary hospital offers an alternative: a medical plan for Spot and Fluffy.

Pre-paid health care available for family pets

By ANDREA ADELSON
Staff Writer

It's the equivalent of a Kaiser plan for Spot or Fluffy.

Every member of the household, including cats and dogs, can now be covered by a pre-paid pet health care plan.

As is true of human medicine, ever-more sophisticated veterinary treatment is available for animal ailments, but its cost has not diminished with the size of the patient.

Even the most devoted animal owner is often reluctant to pay for human-sized bills when Rover's hip is dislocated by a motorist or Fifi's liver fails.

One alternative is euthanasia.

The second is an innovative health care plan for pets. It covers lab work and surgery, plus routine preventive services such as vaccinations and neutering.

"People are not financially prepared to deal with their animals' (problems.) They are very attached to them, but not to the tune of the $300," said Meredith S. Bird, assistant administrator of the Central Veterinary Hospital in Upland.

Central Veterinary Group's other hospitals are located in Montclair and Pedley. After beginning in Montclair in 1973 with a single employee and two Cal Poly Pomona students, founder Robert Schecter now employs 11 fulltime vets and 40 other employees.

Only 10 of the 22,300 animals Central counts among its Upland clientele are covered by its just initiated pre-paid health care plan. Dogs' fees are $75 a year; cats' costs are $60.

The first client covered was a five month old black-and-tan female Rottweiler named Kit, owned by a Chino resident.

A few other local animal hospitals have similar plans, such as Baseline Animal Hospital in Rancho Cucamonga. There owner Darrell Robinson quit his independent health care contracts in favor of a statewide pet insurance plan.

Extending preventive veterinary care a step further, state licensed Veterinary Pet Insurance has been offered in California since April.

More than 700 veterinarians are shareholders of the Garden Grove insurer, that has paid $31,400 in claims among its 6,000 subscribers since organizing, Veterinary Pet Insurance president Jack Stephens said.

Several West Valley veterinarians, including Joseph Tobiska of Fontana and Pomona's David Kolde, were early supporters, he said.

"It's long overdue and very much needed," Stephens said. The pet owner "cannot now be faced with an unexpected high bill. It forces them to either put the animal to sleep, or put off" caring for the critter's troubles.

Representatives from Southern California Edison Co. — Barbara Young of the Edison Steam Plant and Randy Bond from the Ontario District — reported $9,893 and $15,220, respectively, although the West End Edison campaign is not yet completed.

Division totals in the campaign now are: Division A (250 or more employees, Henry Roberts, chairman) $306,255 or 43.3 percent of the $708,000 goal; Division B (50 to 249 employees, Jim Maples, chairman) $169,654 or 44.2 percent of the $384,194 goal; and Division C (less than 50 employees, Rick Nelson, chairman) $58,553 or 40.1 percent of the $146,023 goal.

Upland BPW Club honors woman for achievement

Dina Hunter was honored as Woman of Achievement by the Upland Business and Professional Women's Club during a recent meeting at the Upland Woman's Clubhouse.

A member of the Upland City Council, Mrs. Hunter is a graduate of Upland High School, Chaffey College and the University of Redlands, where she majored in business management. She is a conservation resources coordinator for Southern California Edison Co. and has received several Congressional mentions for program achievement. Prior to being elected to the city council, she served five years on the Upland School Board as vice president and president.

She states, "More than any time in history, the professional woman is in the spotlight. Her actions form a role model for other women and will be a major factor in shaping the world of tomorrow."

Mrs. Hunter was further honored at the San Orco District BPW Conference held in Victorville at the culmination of Business and Professional Women's Week Oct. 17 through Oct. 24. Upland Mayor John McCarthy issued a proclamation from the city of Upland noting the special week.

Also attending the conference in Victorville were: Alice Kane and Darlene Cartwright, delegates; Wanda Parker-Kloppel, president; Zella Stone, past state president; and Carol McCormick, Beverly Adamson, Gene Neunenschwander, Frances Barks and Margaret Thrasher.

West End Opera Guild offers preview

On Nov. 19 at 6:30 p.m. the West End Opera Guild will host a preview of the season's first opera, "The Tales of Hoffmann," which will be held in December at Gardiner Spring Auditorium. Members of the opera chorus will model costumes to be worn in each of the composer, Jacques Offenbach's three tales of love. A native of Montreal, Canada, Blanchette has worked with previous operatic works presented in the West Valley, including the 1979 production of "Die Fledermaus."

The first tale in the "Tales of Hoffmann" takes place in Luther's Tavern in Nuremberg, Germany.

Those interested in learning more about this opera are invited to make reservations for the Nov. 19 preview by calling 987-9719 or 982-2498. Tickets are $10.

Opera Guild members who have been working on the cultural preview are: Marlys Goodban, Lynette Porter, Ruth Piscioneri, Roxie Hyde, Pat Nicholson, Lois Rawle, Beth Barber, Phyllis Godlin, Ernestine Larson and

'Get Lost in a Book'

It's time for children to "Get Lost in a Book" at the Montclair Branch Library during National Children's Book Week Nov. 15 through Nov. 21.

Highlighting this week will be the third annual Children's Bookmark Contest, and children are asked to pick up entry blanks at the Montclair Branch Library, Montclair Civic Center, Fremont and Benito.

Rules for the contest are: (1) draw a picture that uses the theme "Get Lost in a Book"; (2) include name, school, grade, age and phone number; and (3) winners will have their award-winning bookmarks printed and distributed at the library for everyone to take.

Book Week

Two film programs and a special activity to celebrate Children's Book Week will be featured at the Pomona Public Library, 625 S. Garey Ave., Pomona.

"Rip Van Winkle," a version of Washington Irving's classic tale; "Penquins," a madcap look at thousands of penquins all seemingly doing Chaplin imitations; and "One," the story of a small boy who learns to create a balloon out of nothing, will be screened from 1 to 2 p.m. Saturday in the Storyhour Room.

A young boy who declares he'd rather dance than breathe is the star of "The Tap Dance Kid," a family adventure story scheduled for viewing at 7 p.m. Nov. 16. Bugs Bunny stars in "The Rabbit of Seville," a short cartoon also slated for the weekly family film hour Nov. 16 in the Storyhour Room.

Children between 6 and 12 are invited to help celebrate Children's Book Week by listening to stories and then writing letters to their favorite authors from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 17 in the Laura Ingalls Wilder Room.

A variety of programs is offered each week at Pomona Public Library for children of all ages. Call the children's department at 620-2017 for more information.

Winter camps

The West End YMCA has opened registration for its two winter resident camps for boys and girls, Winter Camp and Leadership Camp.

The fee is $56 for Y members and $66 for non-members and includes transportation to and from camp, lodging, meals, supervision and all activities. Early registration is suggested because space is limited.

Leadership Camp, also held Dec. 27-30 at Camp Big Bear, will provide an introduction to YMCA leadership for boys and girls 14-and-15-years-old through group exercises and practical experience. Participants learn skills and help plan a part of the Winter Camp program. Fees are the same as for Winter Camp.

Pilgrims Festival will open Friday, Saturday

The pilgrims will be landing — once again — but this time under billowy clouds, stately palms and in the warm climate of Claremont.

This Friday and Saturday will be the time, and Pilgrim Place in Claremont will be the setting for the 34th Pilgrim Festival, featuring all kinds of booths, games for children, a stage play, rides and a turkey casserole luncheon.

Pilgrim Place contains 32 acres and is a retirement community for 300 former missionaries who work year-round to produce many of the articles sold during the festival.

Those residents with green thumbs grow plants and then sell greenery, fruit, vegetables and potted chrysanthemums during the festival.

In the workshops of Pilgrim Place, men design and produce wooden toys and handy household items; women knit, crochet, sew and weave. Other residents paint seascapes, landscapes, make ceramics, holiday decorations, jewelry, stain glass creations and wood carvings.

A resident artist paints miniature faces on the original Pilgrim Place corn-cob dolls, each of which requires up to 25 hours of hand-stitchery.

There also are miscellaneous tables where everything from buttons to parachutes can be found; the treasures booth contain family heirlooms; and stamps, books, international coins and dolls and Oriental works of art.

The "Glue-In" has been designed especially for children, who can create their "own thing" from wood chips, plastic discards and glue.

Also for the youngsters are a puppet show, a "Kiddie Karousel" and rides on the Massasoit Super Chief and the Mayflower-on-Wheels.

Each afternoon, the original "Pilgrims Triumphant" pageant is portrayed on the outdoor stage, depicting the authentic story of the personal side of those who chose to leave England on the Mayflower and later became known as the first Pilgrims.

'A Cry of Players' to be performed

Walnut High School's Fine and Performing Arts department has announced that tickets are now on sale for the fall drama production, William Gibson's "A Cry of Players," to be presented Nov. 18 at 7:15 p.m. and Nov. 19 and 20 at 8:15 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room. Over 40 Walnut High School music and drama students are featured in the production.

Director and art department coordinator, C. Mack Gilliland has entered the production in the Southern California Educational Theater Association's 12th Annual High School Theater Festival. Outside adjudicators from Southern California colleges and theater arts schools will evaluate Walnut's efforts against other schools in the Orange/San Bernardino County regions and select the finest example of high school theater for command encore at Festival, hosted by Occidental College in January.

Last year's fall production at Walnut, "A Company of Wayward Saints," was selected by the SCETA judges as the winner for showcase presentation. The students performed the play again; earned write-ups in the Sunday Los Angeles Time Calendar Section, captioned "High School Theater Makes the A Squad;" and earned two cast members scholarships for further dramatic study. The students are yet to be the subject of a Sunset Magazine article coming in January.

Original music written for the Broadway production by Richard Peaslee will be played by Walnut music students Sandra Fong, Melinda Murphy and Brian Jepson. The multi-purpose room will feature student art on display at intermission, on the evenings of the Players performances. Tickets may be purchased at the student store on the Walnut campus or from any cast member. For more information call the school at 595-1261.

Scheduled to be held at Griswold's Hacienda and Fiesta Banquet Rooms, the program will have a western theme, and all guests are invited to attend in western gear. The evening will begin at 6:30 with a no host bar followed at 7:30 by a special western buffet. Entertainment will be provided by the Chipmunks who will give a square dancing exhibition under the direction of caller Jim Chipman.

Reservations for the meeting may be made by contacting the Sergeant-At-Arms, Joan Shupe, representative for Hottel's Upland Furniture, prior to Friday.

Four San Dimas students honored

Cal Poly to help establish new Liberian college

Cal Poly Pomona is working to help establish a college in Liberia.

University officials and representatives of the Republic of Liberia's National Redemption Day Commission recently signed a memorandum of understanding to establish a polytechnic institution of higher education in Liberia.

Following preliminary discussions, a five-member delegation from Liberia traveled to Cal Poly to initiate formal discussions leading to the agreement.

Four persons honored by MSAC Friends

Friends of Mt. San Antonio College have selected four persons as the 1982 outstanding alumnus, citizen, educator and staff member in its Friends Honors Program.

Initiated in 1979, the program allows the district board of trustees and the college staff to publicly laud the contributions and achievements of "outstanding" persons and groups.

Those selected are Charles S. Terrell, schools superintendent in San Bernardino County, outstanding alumnus; William Arnott, recently retired as a United Airlines captain and staunch booster of the MSAC aeronautics and aviation departments, outstanding citizen; Earl Purkhiser, accounting and finance instructor, outstanding educator; and Norma Grant, physical educator and athletics division secretary, outstanding staff member.

Terrell, recently elected to the county superintendency, had previously served as superintendent of the San Bernardino City, Corona-Norco, and Needles unified school districts. He has also been a counselor, student activities director, principal and administrator in the Azusa Unified School District.

He has taught in the San Diego City and Azusa School districts.

Following graduation from MSAC, Terrell completed degree programs at La Verne College and San Diego State University and earned his doctorate from USC in 1966.

He has been president of the Corona and Needles Rotary, the Azusa Lions, and a director of the Needles and Corona Chambers of Commerce. He is currently the regional chairman of the 1982-83 United Way fund-raising campaign.

Terrell, a 1950 graduate, served as a member of the student council, Men's Glee Club, Toastmasters, and Varsity Club while at the college. He was also the football team manager in 1950 and played on the baseball squad which took second place in the Eastern Conference in 1950.

Arnott had his first contact with the college in 1958 when he served as a speaker at the Alpha Eta Rho (international aviation fraternity) awards banquet.

Since then he has assisted the department in the recruitment of students. He has also provided many of them their first opportunities to fly in both small and large, commercial aircraft.

He has also provided aeronautics manuals, slides and tapes and drawings to be used in the college's flight engineer training program, the first of its kind to be offered in a two-year college.

A charter member of the departments' advisory committees, Arnott has spent many hours negotiating with his former employer, United Airlines, for donations of educational supplies and equipment and for the use of aircraft. His MSAC graduates have served as crew members for the college's "Classroom in the Sky" educational flights.

He was a moving force behind the development of the "classroom" flights, which took students all across the nation and the world.

Purkhiser is said to "... excel at infecting his students with his enthusiasm for learning" in his accounting, business English, business mathematics, and economics classes.

His concern for students' pursuits of excellence carries over to extracurricular activities. He has spent hundreds of hours counseling his students and helping them expand their capabilities through their activities in business oriented clubs and organizations, including the Investment Club and the Voluntary Income Tax Assistance Program.

He has served on almost every committee in the Faculty Association and the Faculty Senate. He has served as president of both and now a senator-at-large.

Purkhiser is a graduate of Glendale City College. He has completed graduate work at USC and the Claremont Graduate School.

Grant, of Covina, was first employed as a part-time clerk-typist in the financial aid office in 1975. A year later, she became the secretary to the Associated Students and in February, 1978, was named physical education division secretary.

She earned her associate in arts degree from the college in 1975, and returned to classes in the late 1970s to earn a second associate degree. She is continuing her professional growth by taking classes in the new office occupations technologies.

An active member of the campus chapter of the California School Employees Association (CSEA-262), Grant has served as its president twice, 1979 and 1981, its vice president in 1980, and as a member of its collective bargaining team since 1978.

An avid sports enthusiast, Grant cheered Mountie teams from her first days as a student. She continues to lend encouragement at every game she can possibly attend.

She has been active in both the Girl and Boy Scouts, Little League, Parents-Teachers Associations and the Queen of the Valley Hospital Auxiliary.

All honorees will be the guests of the Friends of Mt. San Antonio College at the fourth annual awards dinner-dance at Via Verde Country Club on Nov. 19.

Tickets are $20, and may be purchased in the MSAC public information office. reservations must be received by Nov. 15.

Leonardo da Vinci, a 15th century genius, drew the sketches from which IBM built the models. The exhibit has toured throughout the United States exciting audiences from adults to the very young.

Included in the exhibit, are examples of his concepts dealing with water power, measurement, mobile war-fare, printing, flying machines and transportation. Two of the finer pieces in the exhibit are the military tank and the spring driven automobile.

The gallery maintains the hours of Monday through Friday 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Monday through Thursday 6 to 8 p.m. The gallery observes all state holidays. For additional information, the gallery can be reached at 598-4979.

The art works have been loaned to the college from several private collections and from the Edward Dean Museum in Cherry Valley (Riverside County).

For the holiday season, the gallery will feature "Creative Toys." The opening reception will be held Wednesday, Dec. 1 from 7 to 9 p.m. The show will run to Dec. 16. There is no admission charge.

Show to introduce the current sky

A time for the kids — from 9 to 90. Mt. San Antonio College's Planetarium show for November and December is just the program to introduce youngsters to the current sky, then takeoff for the moon.

The stars, constellations, and other interesting sky phenomenon of 1982 will start off the show and discussion on Friday evenings at 7:15, Friday and Nov. 19, Dec. 3 and 10. Then we're all aboard our MSAC spacecraft to see and learn about the discoveries of the first man on the moon flights of the Apollo astronauts.

Shows begin promptly, and because of the darkened chamber, no one will be admitted after the doors close. Children under 5 years are not admitted to the evening programs.

This social is open to all women in the communities to come, ask questions and in general learn about the Juniors and what they do in our communities.
